

thing that really got me excited was that it was right behind the Old Courthouse and just a block away from the water. It was a perfect spot for me to be able to walk out the front door and to use charming downtown Brunswick as a photography backdrop.

We drafted plans for a house that not only filled our needs but also fit in with the existing 1880s architecture of the other houses on the street. We hired local contractor Richard Edgy with Edgy Homes, who undertook the project with such care you would have thought he was building it for his own family. He got us moved into our dream home under budget and much faster than we expected, which was perfect since we had just discovered that I was pregnant with our first child.

The whole experience has been amazing and we couldn't be happier with how it turned out and where we now live. It is a real treat being able to walk down the street and have Fox's Pizza or brunch at the Corner Cafe and stroll the Farmer's Market on the weekends. ■
